

Lorraine Murphy writes about everyday situations, often twisting them into terrifying tales. She is the author of Into the Woods, a psychological fiction novel, coming in September 2022 and published by Inkubator Books. She has numerous published, and winning, flash fiction stories, and is currently working on her second novel with Inkubator Books.

A software engineer by profession, she's had many careers including slimming club leader, adult educator, charity co-founder, chairperson, activist and entrepreneur. As a teenager, she adored Stephen King and later found herself on the jury of an infamous murder trial.

Lorraine reached District 71 table topics semi-finals in 2020, took second place in Division 9 Humorous speech and table topic competitions in 2022 and has retained the club table topics trophy for three years in a row. She is the incoming President of Mullingar Toastmasters.

Lorraine lives in Westmeath, Ireland with her husband Brendan and three taller children.

Contact:

Twitter: @MurphyLorr

Website: lorraineamurphy.com

Email: lorraine.a.murphy@gmail.com